A New Johnstown to be Built Upon the Ruins of the Flooded City.

THE RELIEF COMMISSION AT WORK.

In Company With Governor Beaver It Inspects the Wrecked Valley.

ALL CONVINCED OF THE DIRE NEED.

Some of the Fund to be Devoted to Purchasing Temporary Houses.

Governor Beaver and his Johnstown Relief Commission yesterday inspected the ruins of the flood-swept town. They were well satisfied that the reports from the devastated district had not been exaggerated. The Commission decided, after conferring with the local Finance Committee, to assist in rebuilding the town, thus helping the survivors to help themselves.

PROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT. JOHNSTOWN, June 19. - The muchtalked-of Relief Commission, which was created by Governor Beaver for the purpose of handling the funds for the alleviation of the distress of the flood sufferers arrived the lines. At New Florence and Bolivar of handling the funds for the alleviation of here this morning at 9 o'clock in a special there are scores of tramps all waiting op-man vestibule ears. They came, saw and talked. That is, the Governor talked, but his speech was short and more guarded than the whisky in some of the officers' tents. The train came from South Fork, and by order of Governor Beaver it was run down to the long stone bridge, where the mass of debris lies burning in the river. The Governor got out of his car and was very much interested in the work of pushing the heavy logs and timbers out into the channel of the GOVERNOR BEAVER MUCH AMUSED. While the Governor was watching the men working a dynamite blast was set off for his benefit. When the time came to return to the car he did not want to leave the spot, and upon ascending the steps stated that he would like to remain there all day

The train was then ran back to the station, and under the direction of Adjutant General Hastings horses were provided for the party and a tour of the devastated region was made. The gentlemen then went through the principal streets of Johnstown borough, and, crossing the river, passed into Kernville. Here they found the greatest destruction. They made their way with the borses over large piles of debris, and explored every nook in the town. Such expressions as "My goodness! How could water do such damage?" and "Just look at this obstruction!" could be frequently heard from the Governor.

The Philadelphians, Messrs. Fitler, Ogden, Reeves and Huber were not amazed.

They were

SIMPLY SPEECHLESS AT TIMES, when they saw the damage that had been done. When they came to a spot where two large two-story frame houses leaned over against one another until the tops of the gables almost touched, the sightseers did not leave the spot for fully five minutes. After going through the whole town the commission returned to Johnstown, where it met the Pittsburg delegation, Messra. Marvin, Miller and Scott. The latter gentlemen came up in company with Superintendent Pitcairn, who tendered them the use of a special train. eitizens of the town, who were holding a meeting, and who wanted to confer with them. One of the Pittsburg commissioners the stream. If was near this place that objected to running around after the citi-zens, and wanted to know why the latter could not come to them. The Johnstown people did not look for this, and the mem-bers of the commission went to dinner in

SOMETHING OF A MISUNDERSTANDING. A message had been sent to the citizens of the town that the Commissioners would arrive at 10 o'clock, and a meeting was hastily called to be held in Alma Hall at that hour. It was stated that the Governor and his party would visit the meeting and confer with the citizens the first thing upon their arrival. This had the effect of drawing out a large number of the best citizens of the town who were desirous of seeing the borough

The meeting was called to order by Cyrus Elder, and James McMillan acted as Secre-tary. After organizing a recess was taken until the Governor and party should ap-pear. This event did not occur though, and after waiting two hours a messenger was sent after the Commission. The latter sent word that they would be on hand with-in an hour, and after waiting awhile longer the meeting adjourned in disgust.

At 1 o'clock the Finance Committee was instructed to meet the commission on board their train and talk over the situation. Some of the members of the Finance Com-about getting into the elegant vestibuled Pullman cars, in which the Commissione traveled, but they managed to conceal their astonishment, and climbed or board. After the Governor and party had finished dinner, the conference was called to order by the Governor. The Finance Committee of the town then stated what the needs of the people were, and offered suggestions as to the disposition of the money on hand. They stated that the best thing to be done now, in view of the fact that a great porthe debris had been cleared away, was to bring portable houses to the town, and have them put up for immediate occupancy.

The commission, after discussing this matter, unanimously agreed to authorize the purchase of 500 houses and have them put together immediately upon their arrival. In addition to purchasing and putting the houses together, they will furnish them with the furfiture essential to begin housekeeping again. This was satisfactory to the members of the committee, and after fully explaining the situation and what had already been done, the local committee re-

FUTURE WORK OUTLINED. After the committee had gone the members of the commission discussed the mat-ter as explained by Adjutant General Hast-ings. They outlined their future work, and authorized General Hastings to build little stores for the merchants of the town, so as to enable them to begin business once more. A resolution was passed authorizing the use of all moneys contributed and all the cash in sight to be spent through the Relief Com-mittees as the latter saw fit. S. S. Marvin, of Pittsburg, and Mayor Fitler, of Phila-delphia, were appointed a Committee in their respective cities to transact the business of the commission. All shipments of clothing, provisions, etc., must be sent to General Hastings. After the meeting of the commission had adjourned, Governor Beaver spoke of his visit about the vicinity, to your correspondent. He said: A TALK FROM THE GOVERNOR. "I had no idea that the damage was so great until I made a personal inspection of the whole place. Upon my other visit here, I did not see enough of the ruins, and then the worst of the desolation escaped my observation. The situation since then has observation. The situation since then has greatly improved, and the work of giving relief has progressed nicely. The work of cienning up the streets and opening the rivers has been carried on more rapidly than anyone could expect. I thought it hardly possible that so much could be done in two weeks, and the place does not look like the same town I visited ten days ago. The situation has been mastered by General Hastings, and it is only a question of a few days' more hard, unremitting work, until the debris is all cleared up. All our efforts will now be directed to make this relief work self-supporting. The best charity is the kind that makes people help themselves. If the residents of this place see that we want them to strike out and go ahead instead of waiting for us to help them, they will get along a great deal more rapidly.

The commission appreciate the advantage of having the people with them."

TRAMPS CAUSING TROUBLE.

1	Hordes of Objectionable Characters Beauty
ł	to Invade the Town.
ł	[FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]
l	JOHNSTOWN, June 19 The officials of ł	the Pennsylvania Railroad to-day appealed
ı	to General Hastings for soldiers to drive
I	away the large number of tramps who are ŀ	coming into the borough daily. The first ŀ	few days after the work of clearing up the ı	debris had been started the guards were very
l	strict and allowed no people having busi-I	ness there to enter the borough. In a great ı	many cases where there was a doubt those ľ	coming toward the place were made to take
l	an oath that they were not coming as "sight-l	seers" or for any but honest purposes. This ı	had the effect of keeping a great many ob-L	jectionable people out of the town. If any ı	sightseers or tramps managed to get in they ŀ	were put to work as soon as discovered. Very few got through the lines, however,
١	owing the vigilance of the guards along the Pennsylvania Railroad.
ľ	This had the effect of gathering large train, composed of an engine and two Pull- portunities to jump freight trains and come here. At the former place is a camp of them near the water tank where the trains stop. This morning about 15 of them boarded a train and refused to get off. They have become so bold that they delay train crews, and almost run the train to suit themselves. General Wiley will issue orders to the guards to be on the lookout for tramps, and if any are found in the borough they must be made to work. McSWIGAN.

THE ARRESTED SOLDIERS,

Seither Burgess Nor Police Seem to Know What Their Offense Was.

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT, I JOHNSTOWN, June 19 .- Detective Mason. who was engaged by the officers of the Fourteenth Regiment to investigate the alleged disorderly acts of the members of the regiment at Cambria City, Monday night, made his report to Colonel Perchment to-night. The detective found that the men had been slightly intoxicated in a saloon and one of them made a flippant remark about the woman who was tending bar. She called several of the members of the tin-tag police who gathered there a "mob" and started after the soldiers. The latter were arrested.
When the detective inquired to-day why the men were arrested the chief of police who ordered the arrest, and the burgess also, stated that they did not know.

The soldiers are insulted everywhere they go in the town, the police thinking that is what they are here for. Colonel Perchment stated to-night that the regiment would probably stay here for another week, and at the end of that time the militia would be called off altogether on account of their being no further use for them.

DYNAMITING THE DRIFT. A Big Blast Touched Off That Comes Near

Injuring Several People. PROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT, I JOHNSTOWN, June 16 .- Major Phillips, 'the dynamiter," began blowing up the drift lodged in the Conemaugh above the gorge to-day, for the purpose of trying to dislodge the body of Miss Paulson, of Pitts-Miss Bryan, of Philadelphia, her com-panion, was found, and it is supposed that the other body is in the immediate vicinity. During the blasting an unusually heavy charge was touched off and it came very near putting an end to some of the military officers. A large stone crashed through the canvas of the dining tent, narrowly escaping hitting several of the men. A newspaper correspondent, who was lying ill, in one of the tents, also made a narrow escape from being struck by a heavy piece of tim-
